

Re-entry Navigation Case Plan: John Cabrera

1. Executive Summary & Assessment Overview

John Cabrera presents with a high risk profile driven primarily by an Antisocial Pattern and Procriminal Attitudes. Key structural strengths include stable housing with his mother and a valid driver's license with reliable transportation. However, significant stability risks exist around untreated PTSD/paranoid schizophrenia, active marijuana use, and non-compliant attitudes regarding firearm possession while on active probation (extending through August 2028).

2. Core Criminogenic Target Interventions

- Procriminal Attitudes: Utilize CBT workbooks and neutral curiosity questions to address firearm insistence and hypervigilance without escalating resistance.
- Antisocial Pattern & Interpersonal Reactivity: Role-play supervisor and peer conflict scenarios emphasizing cognitive pause techniques and workplace survival strategies.
- Education/Employment Deficits: Support math GED preparation and route toward fair-chance employers that match his skills (HVAC/trades background).

3. Facilitation Strategies & Management Guidelines

- Modeling Neutrality (Standard 1.5): Do not debate anti-social statements or firearm logic directly. Acknowledge the underlying feeling of safety concerns while framing compliance in terms of avoiding prison return.
- Managing Resistance (Standard 3.2 & 18.0): Pair John with familiar, consistent staff to respect his trust boundary ("circles get you killed") and build steady rapport.
- Substance Use & CDL Pathway: Explicitly link drug-free status to passing DOT physicals for his long-term CDL and career goals.

4. Immediate Action Steps (30–60 Days)

1. Connect with Charleston Center / Fetter Health Network for voluntary mental health and PTSD trauma support.
2. Initiate math GED tutoring.
3. Match with non-CDL entry-level trades/logistics positions that accept fair-chance candidates.
