

CASE MANAGEMENT BRIEF

Participant: John Moses Cabrera, Date Completed: 05/26/2026 Prepared by: Center Director

1. Risk Profile

Risk Level: High Primary Domains:

1. Antisocial Pattern (Main Driver)
2. Procriminal Attitude/Orientation (Secondary Driver)
3. Criminal History,

Domain Indicators:

- Recent history of assaultive behavior, impulsivity, and poor self-management.
- Expresses hostility and anger, and frequently makes excuses for his behavior,.
- Extensive history of justice involvement starting at age 12, with repeated probation violations and violent charges,.
- Maintains procriminal attitudes, insisting on carrying a firearm for self-protection while on supervision.

2. Behavioral Indicators

Participant exhibits severe hypervigilance, paranoia, and trauma reactivity in public spaces due to past street violence, including being shot, stabbed, and clinically dying for 4 seconds,.,. Reacts impulsively and aggressively to perceived disrespect, tending to escalate conflicts verbally and physically before attempting to de-escalate,.,. Maintains a strong street-oriented mindset, insisting on the necessity of carrying a firearm for self-protection despite being on active supervision. Has a history of physical altercations with authority figures, specifically fighting and assaulting correctional officers,.,. Reports recent marijuana use; has a history of severe crystal meth use, though he maintains he has been abstinent from meth for nearly three years,.,.

3. Pattern Over Time

First justice involvement occurred at age 12 for possession of a firearm and selling crack,.,. Has accrued an estimated 21 to 22 arrests and served three separate prison sentences totaling approximately 14 years,.,. Displays a pattern of catching new charges and violating conditions while on community supervision. Historical trajectory shows an escalation into violent offenses, including convictions for assault and battery first degree, carjacking, and possession of a weapon during a violent crime. Periods of employment stability, such as a 5-year stint in HVAC, are frequently disrupted by a return to drug trafficking for faster financial gain and to avoid conventional work schedules,.,.

4. Acute / Emergency Needs

- Safety concerns: Participant expresses severe fear of retaliation and being targeted due to unresolved street conflicts and unsolved murders,.
- Mental health instability: High levels of untreated PTSD and anxiety impacting daily functioning and causing extreme paranoia,.
- No acute housing or transportation crises identified,,.

5. Structural Stability Factors

- Residing with his mother in a stable, quiet neighborhood; his mother is a strong financial and prosocial support,,.
- Possesses a valid driver's license and reports having reliable transportation,.
- Completed the 11th grade but lacks a GED; he is highly motivated to finish his GED and needs to pass the math portion,.
- Employment history is heavily interrupted by incarceration, with recent work being under the table,,.
- Active state probation supervision extending to August 2028.
- Recent marijuana use could present barriers to certain employment sectors or his goal of obtaining a CDL,.

6. Legal & Placement Constraints

- Active state probation supervision until 08/01/2028.
- No Sex Offender Registry requirement.
- No specific movement restrictions noted beyond standard probation conditions,.

7. Responsivity & Engagement Profile

- Diagnosed with ADHD, depression, and paranoid schizophrenia, alongside severe PTSD,.
- High baseline of paranoia; extremely distrustful of new people, noting that "circles get you killed," and prefers a tightly controlled social network,.
- Responds well to transparent, one-on-one relationships and individuals with whom he has built long-term rapport, requesting familiar staff to handle his scheduling initially,.
- Exhibits minimization and makes excuses for his behavior, requiring calm but firm accountability.
- Highly motivated by his desire to obtain a CDL, complete his GED, and positively mentor younger associates to keep them out of gang life,,.